Tremendous Excitement and Consternation in Paris

PARIS August 8.—Paris is fearfully excited over the army news from the front. There are universal cries to arms. ... The Empress is in consultation with the Deputies. The Prince Imperial has returned from the front. No fighting to day.

Latest advices from the front say the French army is concentrating at Metz where a battle it is thought will be fought before many hours. The departments of Vosges and Moselle are inundated by order of the Government. A levy en masse is expected. The Ministry are now sitting permanently. Vigorous measures are announced for to-morrow.

The Journal Officiel contains the following: Metz August ... In the battle of Saturday near Reichshoffen McMahon's Chief of Staff Gen Colson was shot by the Marshal's side. General Raoult is among the missing. Our artillery suffered heavily. McMahon is in communication with Gen Failley. Metz is preparing for a vigorous defense.

An Imperial decree has appeared convoking the Senate and Corps Legislatif to-morrow.

Paris will not be taken unawares. The erection of works will be commenced to-morrow. Exterior forts are in a condition to sustain a siege and in a few days the whole circuit of walls will be in a similar condition. The National Guard is to defend the ramparts which it will have helped to render inaccessible. Forty thousand men will be taken from its ranks and added to the present garrison, which will be more than enough to make an active defense against the enemy occupying an extended front. The defense of Paris will then be assured.

A General Battle Imminent.

LONDON August 8.—A general battle in front of Metz is considered probable to-morrow. The Prussians are moving in that direction by forced marches.

Further News from Paris

PARIS August 8.—Le Temps announces that Marshal Bazaine is appointed Commander-in-Chief and General Larouche Major General of the army. Gen LeBoeuf retires to his Department. It says the Ministry have determined to create a National Committee with power to act under all ... arising from the war.

Some Deputies of the Left were at the hall of the Corps Legislatif to day, and while there a great crowd surrounded the place and shouted for arms.

It is rumored that Henri Rochefort will be released.

LONDON, August 8.—A Tribune's special says the news from Paris grows hourly more serious. The declaration of the state of siege does not repress popular demonstrations and it is very doubtful whether the government has a force to keep order or to put down any considerable demonstrations. The Republicans believe their hour will approach to arm against Napoleon rather than to arm against Prussia.

This morning's Rappel publishes the following declaration: The undersigned Deputies met at the Palace of the Corps Legislatif. They demand the immediate arming of all the citizens of Paris. Under existing circumstances all the French must be armed and ready. [Seventeen Deputies signed this.]

The press support this manifesto with another saying the Democratic parties of Paris demand the immediate arming of all citizens and the organization of committees of defense composed of the first Deputies from Paris and that the patriots must rise and join them. The country is in danger. It is certain that these Deputies and journals do not make this call to arms for the defense of an Emperor whose military capacity has brought disaster on France. The people will not much longer endure insult and fraud from a terror stricken government.

The news of the French defeat was known in London and New York several hours before it was made known in Paris.

It is said that Napoleon's attack is a return of the old disease, provoked by equestrianism.

Dispatch from London

LONDON August 8.—In the House of Commons to-day Earl Granville stated that the neutrality of Belgium was now assured. The Powers now at war have concurred in a pledge to support it. He recited at great length the course of negotiations undertaken by the British government and brought to this satisfactory result.

Lord Halifax said the Government would not protect the exportation of arms.

In the House of Commons to-night no allusion was made to the war or kindred topics.

SUMMER WANDERINGS

BY A LADY CORRESPONDENT.

VICTORIA AND BRITISH COLUMBIA

July 28.—Strolling about the city of Victoria I discovered a photograph gallery by the fine views of Fraser River hanging at the door. Following this lead I went inside where the very gentlemanly proprietor invited me to an inspection of his albums of views about Victoria and more especially of the Fraser River country. Having previously consumed half a dozen pamphlets about British Columbia, the study of these pictures filled up the mental outline I had drawn of that country, and without a guide enabled me to see some of the wildest and most beautiful scenery on the continent. Like the Columbia the Fraser breaks through the Cascade range and has even a much longer passage amongst mountains. The land about the delta of the Fraser is ... rich and subject to overflow. The entrance to the river is not obstructed by a dangerous bar nor exposed to storms as is the Columbia. Vessels drawing eighteen or twenty feet can enter with ordinary care. Fifteen miles from the entrance having passed the marshy land and come to a region of magnificent timber like that on the ... the voyager reaches New Westminster the capital town of British Columbia. New Westminster has about eight hundred inhabitants, has three churches—Church of England, Roman Catholic and Wesleyan—a Colonial hospital and the Government buildings. The country about it being densely timbered, there is but little land under cultivation.

The river is navigated by the Hudson Bay Company's steamers as far as Fort Yale, about ninety miles above New Westminster. A portion of the way the banks are heavily wooded but another portion of the country is an open fertile prairie. Fifty miles brings the traveler to the junction of the Harrison river—one of the routes to the Cariboo mines. Although there are occasionally fine views of mountains and water on the way to Yale it is only at Yale that the panorama of grandeur actually commences. From here the travel goes on up to Cariboo by a wagon road built at a very great expense, and for which the Colony is still, I believe in debt. Mr Daly's photos of the scenery along this road furnish a feast to the lovers of grandeur. Yale itself is situated in a remarkable gorge of the Cascades similar to but narrower than that on the Columbia. In fact the scenery of the Fraser is a combination of the Columbia and the Colorado and will one day be resorted to as one of the famous localities of the northwest.

From Mr Daly's photos one learns not only the character of the scenery but by analogy more or less of the characteristics of the soil, the species of the forest trees, almost the denomination of the rocks. These latter do not differ materially from the rocks and forests of Oregon and Washington ... granite rock is more frequently met with and in larger bodies than it occurs in near the Columbia. Fifty or sixty miles above Yale high table lands occur. So often and to such purpose has Mr Daly brought his scientific ... art ... skill to bear on a variety of objects along the route to Cariboo, that after half a day's study of his albums one knows not only the sort of country he would have to travel over but also the sort of people he would meet by the way, the style and dimensions of the wayside houses, the immensity of the wagons he would meet on the mountain road drawn by from seven to nine pairs of mules and horses and all the other common incidents of the journey. One of the most amusing of these pictures is called "Mules selecting their packs." This represents thirty or more pack saddles placed in a straight line upon the ground, and standing side by side in an equally straight line each with its nose to a pack saddle as many mules. The creatures actually look as if "sitting for their pictures," such is the perfect order and regularity of the line. But the poor brutes were not thinking of art at all, only feeling, ... if you please, that if they did not get their own saddles their backs would be terribly galled in the day's journey. Governed by this ... when they were driven up to be loaded after much running to and fro, and snuffing at the pack, each one selected his own and stood by it ...

Many of the wayside houses have a comfortable ... appearance, while the family groups and visitors stationed on the porches to be taken often make one desire to form their acquaintance. Other pictures of mining camps remind us too forcibly of the mining camps in Nevada with which we have no desire to be any more familiar having had a month's experience of one of the roughest where the scrambling mules fell through our roof until it became, as Mark Twain says, "monotonous."

One of the things I sought for in Victoria was a good specimen of the slate carvings done by the Queen Charlotte Island natives. But at the only place where they are kept on sale I found nothing but some very clumsy and badly executed pipes not liking which I was forced to relinquish the pursuit of native art. I saw in the hands of a gentleman some silver bracelets made from coins, and engraved in a style very little inferior to the work done by our own silversmiths. Like the Chinese these Indians will make a copy of any thing you give them, almost or quite as perfect as the original. The owner of this "curios" ... shop where these goods have formerly been kept says the manufacture has nearly ceased, the natives deteriorating in skill or industry as they come under white men's influence.

There is in Victoria a public library—the Mechanic's Institute—to which I paid a hasty visit but was unable to judge of the collection. The bookstore of Mr Hibben is an entertaining place to call at and the visitor is sure of a welcome as polite as ... purchaser. There may be found many interesting works on the history and resources of the Northwest, more especially of the British possessions.

The situation of Victoria is with the single exception of the size of the harbor a favorable one for a large town. The whole population of the island however is not over ... 000 nor that of British Columbia more than 10,000. Nor will the population materially increase until Great Britain makes them part and parcel of herself or they ... with the nearer life of the American ... The ... reminds one of the ... condition of the Oregon colony ... by the United States Government ... pleading and hoping, and waiting—the same patriotic clinging to their own institutions with ... secretly nourished ... hopes of independent action.

One of the sensations not political which was being experienced in Victoria during my visit was a spiritual one occasioned by the lectures of Mr ... Todd of Portland. ... the assumptions of the lecturer taking thinking people by surprise enabled him to engage the interest of very cultivated people. That he silenced the attempts at discussion which were made by some of the clergy was claimed for him. That ... need anybody of the truth of spiritualism ... was willing to admit, but that some ... was made by the course of lectures was ... and as that is what Mr Todd is after his ... may be considered a success.

I had the pleasure of meeting in Victoria with Sir James Douglas, well known to the early citizens of Oregon, and had the pleasure of talking over with him some reminiscences of early times. He spoke of his intimate and beloved friend Dr McLoughlin ... feeling ... that he had never known his equal for goodness ... of heart and forbearance under circumstances of ...

... Sir James referred to ... journey ... Vancouver to ... when the Hudson's Bay Company ... being transferred to the latter ... spread in the ... every night ... charm of ... that life ... novelty. I had on that expedition ... seven hundred pounds in gold which when we were encamped was placed in my tent, the bags ranged in a circle around me. Some years afterwards when I was in Europe and was ... very remarkable and precious ... which was said to weigh ... pounds in gold and assured I should never have the privilege of looking on its like again, I could not help thinking with a smile of the ... pounds of gold that I had looked upon in my own tent in the forests of America. It is certainly not the denizens of the old world who have seen marvels but the men like Sir James who have ... all the scenes incident to the creation of a new one.

Once more I was indebted to kind friends for a delightful drive over a fine road leading through primeval woods whose grandeur and coolness alternated with glimpses of cultivated fields and bits of glancing water. Turning off from this at about eight miles from town we came by a shaded ... road out upon the head of Esquimalt Bay where in a pretty nook by the water's edge was a gentleman's residence. Here we enjoyed a courteous welcome and a ... lovely view of the bay and the Olympian mountains and as fine an atmosphere as there can be in the world. It was a ... beautiful retreat for a man of infinite ... as we knew the owner to be. Returning ... Victoria just at that ante sunset hour when the mountains assume their loveliest and ... dreamlike aspect and the air has in it a suggestion of neighboring snow peaks as refreshing ... in a hot evening, I bade adieu at once to my friends and their pleasant city.

A late dinner at my hotel, a hasty packing up and I transferred myself to the ... the cleanest and most comfortable ship of its size that ever I have traveled on. The passage was a smooth one too, but nevertheless—through force of habit I believe—I was sea sick. I shall never be able to make friends with the sea nor with steamships though there were positively no bad ... about the ... and I could not blame the little steamer for making me ... through the ... nerves. The passage to the bar was made in little more than twenty four hours and to Portland in a dozen more with good weather all the way. When I wander again to the north I shall know that I have a six weeks tour before me instead of two.

THE TERRITORIES

A two story brick building will be erected in Walla Walla and opened as a first class hotel.

It is again rumored that a company propose to start a woolen mill in Walla Walla valley soon.

A postal route from Vancouver to Strong's battleground has been established. The contract for carrying the mail will soon be let.

A statement is published in a Walla Walla paper to the effect that one hundred lodges of Blackfeet Indians have recently died of small pox.

John Cone writes to the Montana Pick and Plow that 20,000 men can make $2 50 a day each over working expenses, in diggings he has prospected on the Yellowstone.

A railroad meeting was held at Vancouver last week the object being to take some action to induce the Northern Pacific Company to bring their railroad to that place. A committee was appointed to arrange it.

A Walla Walla paper says: Considering the season of the year and general dullness there is considerable travel to and from the interior mining camps. The packers have all been kept busy, though they have most all been compelled to purchase their own cargoes.

A Montana paper says: The fecundity of stock here is wonderful. Mr H Sterling, a dairyman in Deer Lodge county a few miles below Emmetsburg, had a yearling bring forth twins this spring, and another calf of his herd—only 11 months old—gave birth, last May, to a fine, large calf.

On Thursday last at Walla Walla, a child of Frank Stone's fell backwards into a boiler of hot water and was badly scalded. At first it was supposed to be a fatal burn but the water was not quite as hot as was first supposed, and it is now thought the little sufferer will recover.

The Idaho World says: "A newly arrived minister took a stroll before breakfast on the first Sunday after his arrival, and after walking half a dozen blocks was accosted by a shabby looking individual who had been watching him with, 'You needn't look any further—there ain't a d—d saloon open.'"

The editor of the Vancouver Register has had a little controversy with a contemporary who seems to decline to push matters further. Thereupon the Register man closes in this slashing style: "Since you have weakened, we will let up for the present. When you recommence we will give you hell in three volumes and appendix." ...

The New Northwest says the N P R R surveying party now in the Coeur D'Alene mountains, have instructions to proceed to Lewiston, and returning by way of Pend d'Oreille lake, examine the Boulder and Pipestone passes between Deer Lodge and the Jefferson and report upon their practicability as routes for the Northern Pacific Railroad.

Capt. John Mullan of Montana wagon road fame is now at the head of a party at Pend d'Oreille City prospecting the country there in behalf of the North Pacific Railroad. It is thought that a good pass will be found down the South side of the Pend d'Oreille river, and that the probable crossing of that river will be at or near the Rock Island rapids some twenty miles above Cabinet Landing.

Wyoming is involved in another Indian war, the murders and atrocities reported surpassing in horror even former Indian inhumanities. The Utes, incensed because the miners of North Park would not act as their auxiliaries in a war with the Cheyennes, attacked them in force and nearly all were massacred. It seems unsafe to travel any distance even from the leading towns of the Territory. Public meetings are being held and citizens generally are arming themselves for self protection.

From the Vancouver Register: The steamboat now in process of construction is fast approaching completion ... and will soon take her place on the route between Vancouver and Portland as a competitor for public favor. She is a hundred feet long with twenty four feet beam and will be propelled by a forty horse power engine. Her decking of the finest quality of lumber will be all ready by the time we go to press. In less than three weeks time she will be christened and launched.

WEDNESDAY MORNING AUGUST 10 1870

Low Politicians and their Work

Under the leadership of unscrupulous demagogues and low politicians in San Francisco, some of the citizens of that city are running into the wildest extremes of folly. They have now reached the point of setting on foot a movement to drive the Chinese by physical force from the State. At a late meeting a resolution was passed to send the six Chinese companies a warning that it would be no longer safe for their people to come to the United States, and this proceeding has been followed by the organization of several military companies, called avowedly with the object of taking up their declaration. [illegible] that they are establishing branches in other towns, that they have a secret association to run Chinamen out of the country, morally if possible, physically if required. Of course the movement is headed by some of the most notorious political demagogues in the State, and no doubt its members are mostly lazy worthless fellows who have never done a day's work in a week all their lives. Some well meaning but ignorant and unthinking men have probably joined them, but the controlling element of such an organization must necessarily be made up of persons of brutal instincts and furious passions, whom unprincipled leaders can easily inflame and stimulate to acts of violence. Nothing is more certain than that Congress will not enact a law to expel the Chinamen now in the United States. To suppose that any party would do such a thing is an absurdity. Then if this California organization is determined to have them driven out, they must resort to the other part of their programme and attempt to expel them by physical force. As they are organizing "anti-coolie military companies" in San Francisco, it may be supposed that they contemplate a resort to violence to accomplish their purpose. This means probably a general massacre, and it is to this end that the humane and highly civilized "anti coolie" men seem to be tending. If not, what do their armed organizations mean? Were it not that humanity would be disgraced and unoffending Chinese made to suffer, it might be desired that an attempt of this sort would be made. There would then be an opportunity to teach the unprincipled leaders of this movement and their senseless followers a lesson. The Government would be bound to put down such an attempt with the strong arm, and to bring the instigators and actors in it to merited punishment. California would get rid of some of the notorious political demagogues who are the curse of her present existence, and the occupation of many others would be gone.

It is only the worst element of the population, the sub-stratum of the Democratic party, that can be led into these so called anti-coolie movements and demonstrations. The better portion of the Democracy deplore them, though some of the politicians in California who claim respectability (like Grover of Oregon) join in the hue and cry for the purpose of getting votes. In a Democratic paper of the better class—the Downieville Democrat—we find a description of these organizations which is as forcible as just. That paper says that those who participate in these movements are but a small portion of the laboring men of the State; that the members generally are nothing more than downright rowdies and bummers, and that their leaders are men "possessing neither brains nor character." It has the following additional remarks on the societies:

Outside of San Francisco, where they will always find plenty of political bummers to shout their war-cry, they will receive no encouragement. We do not think the time will come very soon, at least not in our day, when this State will be converted into one vast camp of proletaires. The San Francisco societies may continue to whine for bread, while they refuse to work more than eight hours a day, but the real laboring population of the State—the farmers and miners—will keep up the old style, which experience has taught to be a good one—that is, to make hay while the sun shines, and "put through" the auriferous dirt while the water holds out. The best thing these San Francisco workingmen could do would be to quit President making, throw overboard the Winns, Mooneys, Pickets, Cuthbirts, Georges, etc and then swing the hammer and shove the plane as many hours out of the twenty four as they can be paid for, or as their necessities may demand.

This is such plain and sensible talk that it may be commended as fit for reflection, not only in California but also in Oregon. There are enough persons here to take up the hackneyed talk so prevalent among the demagogues of California and to try to gain political advancement by it.

A Lost Opportunity

It is now evident that France has lost her opportunity in the war by being too slow. A few days ago, as the cable apprised us, the London Times argued that the slowness of the French, together with the rapidity with which the Prussians rallied, and the celerity of their concentrations upon the Rhine at the critical points, had defeated Napoleon's plans for the conquest of the Rhine Provinces and the disintegration of the German States. It was stated that the plan upon which Napoleon proposed to wage the conflict was by rapid movements to hurl the various corps d'armee which had concentrated at the camp of Chalons into Central Germany, thus dividing the North and South German States through their very center. The wonderful rapidity of the Prussians in covering their exposed points foiled this maneuver. The French lost at least a fortnight of valuable time, and the slowness and irresolution thus manifested may yet result in their irretrievable ruin. It is astonishing indeed that the country which produced the great soldier who taught to Europe the importance of rapid movements, and who led France to victory over every nation on the continent, should now be overwhelmed in battle by Napoleonic strategy. The first Napoleon said that those who opposed him in war never would learn the value of time. But Prussia seems to have learned the lesson, while France has forgotten it.

Senator Morton, of Indiana, recently delivered an elaborate speech at Terre Haute on the prospects of the political campaign of this fall. He expressed a belief that the Republicans, generally, would hold their ground, and showed that they had some strong facts to present in the canvass. For instance, the internal revenue receipts have increased $[illegible] 000 000, and the customs $17 000 000 since Gen. Grant's inauguration over the previous sixteen months. Our expenses have been lessened $50 000,000, the debt reduced $[illegible] 000 000 and the taxes reduced $80 000 000. All these things, Mr Morton argued, commend the Republican party to the people and enable it to hold its ground.

A leading Democratic paper thinks that Hendricks, of Indiana, and John Quincy Adams, of Massachusetts, would make a strong Democratic ticket for the Presidency.

The French Mitrailleur

Many readers of the telegraphic dispatches have doubtless been a little puzzled to know what was the prize the Prussians took when they captured several Mitrailleures, in other words what kind of thing the Mitrailleur is. The New York Tribune thus explains.

The Mitrailleur, which is as yet untried in practical warfare, is considered by the French as the most destructive military weapon known. Recently [illegible] wretched horses already condemned to the pole-axe were purchased at the rate of four or five francs each and ranged at a considerable distance. Two mitrailleuses were brought to play on them, and in three minutes after two discharges not one of the animals remained standing. On a second occasion 600 horses were brought down at a single trial. This formidable weapon is constructed as follows:

It is a light 37 barreled gun, arranged that its barrels may be discharged simultaneously or in succession. The 37 cartridges, intended for one charge are contained in a small box. A steel plate with corresponding holes, is placed on the open box which is then reversed and the cartridges fall points foremost into their respective holes. They are prevented from falling through by the rims at their bases. The loaded plate is then introduced into the breech slot and when the breech is closed by a lever a number of steel pins, pressed by spiral springs, are only prevented from striking the percussion arrangement in the cartridges by a plate in front of them. When this case is moved slowly by a handle, the cartridges are fired one by one. If the plate be withdrawn rapidly they follow each other so quickly that their discharge is all but simultaneous. The invention seems very well adapted for use in forts or other permanent places of defense or offense but its carriage and management in the field would present many and insuperable obstacles to its general use.

The Tribune adds to this description:

The implement bears a very close resemblance to an American invention which was offered to our Government at the opening of the war. Some of these machines were taken down to the Army of the Potomac while it was on the peninsula under McClellan, and experiments were there made with them, but it was decided that they were not available for field service against the enemy. During the draft riots of 1863 in this city two of them were placed in the City Hall Square and directed at the mob, which was evidently overawed by their formidable appearance; but they were never brought into actual use. If we remember rightly the American invention consisted of twenty four peculiarly constructed rifle barrels which were placed on a light carriage frame work. The whole of the barrels were not only discharged simultaneously, but volley followed volley with the greatest possible rapidity. We heard some time ago that this invention had been brought to the notice of the French Emperor, who directed experiments to be made with it, and was highly gratified with the results. We doubt, however, whether the Mitrailleur will be of much service to the campaign on the Rhine.

A recent act of Congress contains some very stringent provisions for the prevention and punishment of frauds in the election of members of that body. In New York the election of local officers and members of the Legislature takes place on the same day on which members of Congress are chosen. It is said that the Tammany Ring demand that a special session of the Legislature shall be called to change the time of holding the local elections so as to avoid any interference with their little games for ballot box stuffing and false canvassing. Tammany, says the New York Tribune, feels that she cannot afford to permit any outsiders appointed by act of Congress to peer into and possibly discover her peculiar modes of conducting elections.

These be hot days; but when the Herald says it has never evinced any "hostility to Holladay's road," but that, on the contrary it has always felt extreme friendliness for the enterprise, the statement is as cool as an icicle. The Herald's assertions are of little consequence to us, but as a matter of fact it may be well enough to state that that paper during the last four months has devoted more space to opposing Holladay and his railroad than to all other subjects taken together.

The departure of General Sheridan for Europe to witness the operations of the war recalls the fact that during the recent conflict in this country many distinguished officers of the leading European powers were about the headquarters of our great armies to make observations on our mode of carrying on war. It will also be remembered that General McClellan went to the Crimea during the operations around Sebastopol.

CALIFORNIA AND NEVADA

It is said the Census Marshal's returns will show upward of 7,000 inhabitants in Virginia City and 4,000 in Gold Hill.

Broderick's will has been photographed for the purpose of sending the copy East to be used as evidence in a libel suit now pending.

S B Axtell, present Congressman from the First District (San Francisco) is spoken of as a probable candidate for next Governor on the Democratic ticket.

San Diego, according to the reports now received from that locality, is about as dull as it was when "Phenix" presided over the columns of the Herald, and gave such racy descriptions of that place.

The Reese River Reveille insists upon but two nominations for State officers from Eastern Nevada before the coming Republican Convention—F C Bateman, for Governor, and Len. Wines, for Treasurer.

Within the past three or four days there has been a sudden and rapid decrease in the volume of water of the Carson river. It is feared that the water mills along the river will have to stop running in consequence.

The Sacramento Bee has this notice of a decayed mining town: Sonora, once the queen city of the Southern mines, and a place of thrift as well as one in which religion education and refinement have since flourished now has five churches closed permanently. The old rafters no longer re echo the words of the Gospel, and the minister has sought other and fresher fields of glory.

Following is an extract from a letter dated Ogden, July 24, published in the Salt Lake Herald of the 27th: "The small pox is in our midst. In vain we have tried to deceive ourselves but now we must accept it as a stern fact. White flags are seen floating in front of a few houses where the epidemic has entered. Meeting and school houses are closed, and business, hitherto dull, is now at a stand still, and everything presents a gloomy appearance."

OREGON

On Sunday morning the dwelling of F R Smith, one and a half miles of Salem was burned.

There is now a population of over 300 in Goose Lake valley. About twenty families arrived there last month.

Fires are raging in the Blue Mountains and Grand Ronde valley is almost surrounded by this element of destruction.

Max Muller has been appointed Postmaster at Jacksonville, to succeed J M Sutton. He will enter upon the duties of his office soon.

There were reports a short time ago of Indian depredations at Link river, in the Klamath lake country, but they were without foundation. It is said that 30 settlers are on their way from California to be stationed in that region. Superintendent Meacham has gone there.

One day last week while a party of three or four persons were riding in a wagon near Pendleton, in Umatilla county, a gun was discharged whereby an Italian boy about twelve years of age was shot in the side. The wound was at first supposed to be fatal, but the boy was taken to Walla Walla, and there are now hopes that he will recover.

A fearful responsibility rests upon those charged with the care of children. A careless neglect in the timely use of a well-known safe and certain remedy for that most common and dangerous complaint called croup should subject the party to the severest censure, when it is well known that a bottle of NEWELL'S PULMONARY SYRUP would have warded off the attack. BOARD OF TRADE

REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Portland Board of Trade was held last evening at the Council Chamber—W S Ladd President in the chair, Jno M Drake Secretary

After the reading of the minutes of the preceding meeting the Secretary read the following

COMMUNICATION FROM THE PILOT COMMISSIONERS

PORTLAND Aug 4, 1870

Jno. M. Drake Esq., Secretary Board of Trade:—The undersigned Commissioners on the part of the State for contracting for the support of a steam tug boat on the Columbia river and Bar Pilot grounds beg to notify you that they have contracted with the owners, Messrs Geo Flavel and R. M Simpson for the steam tug Boat Astoria for said service for the term of five years from the 1st inst. and the present efficient corps of Bar Pilots, being connected with the steam tug boat in their position under the law

We have thought proper to give you this information in order that, should your Board deem it advisable, it might notify the Boards of Trade and Boards of Underwriters of New York and San Francisco of the fact that the Columbia river bar is now in charge of a powerful and efficient steam tug in charge of the old and experienced Bar Pilots as a permanent fixture under a contract with and subsidized from the State, which it is hoped may prove beneficial to the State at large by means of lessening by the same [illegible] risk and detention to sailing vessels, and should result in diminishing to some extent the rates of insurance as well as of freight by sailing vessels.

For your further information we will state that under this arrangement the charges as fixed by law are for towing and piloting a vessel from the sea beyond the bar to Astoria eight dollars per foot for the first twelve feet and ten dollars per foot for any excess above twelve feet

Very respectfully,
H C LEONARD
WM WEATHERFORD
JOHN STEPHENSON
Commissioners

Mr Secretary Drake informed the Board that he had procured to be printed 300 copies in pamphlet form, of the constitution and by laws at a cost of $[illegible]

On motion of Mr Loryea the Secretary was directed to procure a seal with suitable inscription for the use of the Board.

The Secretary announced for information that [illegible] persons had signed the constitution and by laws, thus becoming members of the Board.

On motion of Mr Loryea the bill for printing constitution and by laws be printed, if found by the Finance Committee to be correct

Mr Loryea announced that before another meeting of the Board, the Portland Bridge Co would probably take measures for locating a site for their bridge, and on his motion a committee of five was provided for to confer with the Bridge Co. in relation to such site The President appointed Messrs J C Ainsworth A P Ankeny and C M Carter

On motion of Mr Ainsworth, the President W S Ladd was added to the committee as chairman.

The Board then adjourned to September

OLD NEWSPAPERS —We are indebted to Mr [illegible] of this city for a fac simile of the first number of the Boston News Letter, the first newspaper published in North America. The date reads "From Monday April 17, to Monday, April 24 1704" The sheet is a folio half sheet leaf printed on both sides the other half only half printed on one side, and the remainder at right angles with those on the first. The contents are almost exclusively extracts of articles which had appeared during the preceding December in Scotch or English publications There are also a few items of a local nature and New York [illegible], and New London dates. Two quaint specimens of composition, for instance: "Boston April 18 Arrived Capt. Sill from Jamaica about 4 Weeks Passage, says, they left the Island very Sickly" "Mr Nathaniel [illegible] Merchant of this place dyed April 15 & Decently inter'd April 18 Aetatis [illegible]" "Capt. Toungrello has taken Five Prizes off the Havana, one of which is come in to Rhode Island, Laden with Cocoa Tobacco, &c. [illegible] This is a Carraso Trader, as all the rest are. One of the Five was one Laurent a French Man, a Sloop of 8 Guns & 8 Pattararo's, [illegible] fought him Board and Board three hours [illegible] Laurent was killed and 20 of his men killed and wounded Capt Toungrello [illegible] the Body, and five of his men but [illegible] he had but 40 Fighting Men, when [illegible] taken." An advertisement of the proprietor [illegible] that "This News-letter is to be continued Weekly; and all Persons who have any Houses, Lands, Tenements, Farms Ships, Vessels, Goods, Wares or Merchandizes, &c to be Sold or Let; or Servants Run-away, or Goods Stole or Lost; may have the same inserted at a Reasonable Rate, from Twelve Pence to Five Shillings, and not to exceed. Who may agree with John Campbell Post-master of Boston."

We have another old paper of almost equal interest—The Oregon Free Press of July 1st 1848, published at Oregon City by Geo L Curry The paper contains the names of many of the [illegible], politicians, and business men, some of whom are still living in Oregon but many of them have either long since died or gone to other parts The news matter of the Free Press of that date affords an opportunity to contrast the [illegible] transmission of news then and now It [illegible] matter of boast in the Press that on the 1st of July, it published news from The United States as late as the middle of March, and from Europe as late as February 24th [illegible] From St. Louis papers announcing the departure of the battalion of troops on the way to Oregon. One of these is dated Little Nemaha, Sept 7 1847"—almost a year old another [illegible] Ft. Kearney Sept 22, 1847 In the [illegible] European we find this paragraph "It is rumored that France had declared war against [illegible] and that 60,000 men were on their way to the Rhine." Then follows reports that Belgium had been annexed to France that King Leopold and family had fled nearly all Europe in a [illegible] revolution in Naples the king expected to be [illegible] by French Royal family (Louis Philippe) [illegible] at London Republicanism [illegible] spreading through Europe, several [illegible] broken up and their rulers [illegible]. All this news was brought by [illegible] Capt. Goodwin 16 days from the Sandwich Islands and was condensed from the [illegible] Island Views and the Polynesian of the [illegible] At that time it was considered very late news, as the vessel had made a remarkably quick [illegible]. In 1848, news from the Franco-[illegible] war was very late if it came in one hundred and twenty one days Now we have news from the Franco-Prussian war in twenty hours or less.

[illegible] FOR PORTLAND —The N P T Co's steamship California sailed from San Francisco for Portland yesterday, with the following named passengers: C Temple Emmett Professor David [illegible] and family, B R Throckmorton Jr Wm Bryan, Ben Bryan, A A Williamson Rev C G Belknap, Mrs Barlow and wife, J L Barlow Mrs [illegible] Irving Miss M Irving S A Smith and family, [illegible], Mrs S Thompson C A Pease [illegible] Rev C C McCabe and family Rev Bishop [illegible], Rev D H Carroll and wife C H Reed and family, G W Harper and wife, J M Stiles J G [illegible], Miss E D Driver Miss Anna Breck, Mrs [illegible], Mrs M A Crockett and child Mrs E L [illegible], W S Newbury and family, W Moffett [illegible] E K Hovey and wife, Dr A W Wiggin and servant, H Gabel, A Wheeler, S Cooper [illegible], B H Mills W S Kenny C E Look [illegible] J H Crawford J G Donnell, W H Rogers and family, Mrs T M Hart Miss Monastes, W H [illegible] and family, J W Sprague and family [illegible] Freeland and family Miss A Simons [illegible] and family W A Hubbard Samuel [illegible] and 20 others

RISING VALUES —Real estate has risen very rapidly at East Portland within the last two years, few people realize just how rapidly An instance has occurred within the last few days which furnishes a good illustration A block in McMillen's addition—some distance below Ulin[illegible] Point and several blocks back from the river, in the timber—sold for $1 [illegible]00 But little more than a year ago the block just in front of it was purchased of the proprietor of the town site, for $450, and the block in question could not then have cost more than $450 The advance it will be seen, is almost 400 per cent Not all property in that burg has advanced at the same rate, but all has advanced beyond any precedent in this country It is needless to say that the result is almost wholly attributable to the construction of the railroad with a certain prospect of an east side depot

COMPLIMENTARY —We acknowledge the receipt [illegible] complimentary tickets to the Clarke county (W. T.) Agricultural Fair, Vancouver, Sept 28 to [illegible]

PORTLAND LABOR EXCHANGE

ANNUAL MEETING—ELECTION OF TRUSTEES

The annual meeting of the Labor Exchange of Portland was held last evening at the Council Chamber—A M Loryea Vice President in the chair John M Drake Secretary

The Secretary read his annual report covering the operations of the Board for a period of ten months and showing in detail its financial condition

The report on motion of Mr Ladd was adopted

The election of a Board of Trustees for the ensuing year being declared in order the Secretary was directed to read the list of persons entitled by subscription to vote therein by which it appeared the number of legal voters is 90

On motion of Mr Green the old Board was re elected by acclamation consisting of Messrs C. H Lewis Henry Failing W S Ladd, H McKinnell, L White A M Loryea, E D Shattuck, F Dekum, J C Ainsworth, and H C, Leonard

Mr Ladd stated that upon examining the list of subscribers, he found that Messrs E D Shattuck and H McKinnell were not eligible by reason of not being now subscribers and on his motion Messrs Donald Macleay and Philip Wasserman were elected to fill such vacancies

The Board then adjourned

U S CIRCUIT COURT—DEADY J —Proceedings of Tuesday Aug 9

John R Lamb et al vs L H Wakefield et al, in equity Opinion announced and decree to be entered that the complainants together with J P O Lownsdale Mary E Cooper Millard O Lownsdale and Ruth A Lownsdale are entitled to four fifths of the property in controversy and that defendants are entitled to one fifth, and the said complainants and others in interest, be required to pay to said defendants four fifths of the [illegible] heretofore paid upon said property with interest

The court adjourned to Tuesday, Aug 16

MISS MINNIE'S BENEFIT —The benefit tendered to Miss Minnie Pixley at Oro Fino, last evening turned out a regular bumper The front part of the house was filled while the pit had but few vacant seats The performance of "Andy Blake" and "Our Gal" went off nicely and with great eclat, while in the melange, the beneficiary and her sisters were enthusiastically applauded and encored at every appearance The benefit considering the attendance on so warm an evening, and the plaudits given the beneficiary, was indeed a complimentary as well as a substantial one

CLEANED OUT AND ALL SAFE —Those parents with boys who are in the habit of playing in the vicinity of the East Portland powder house will be relieved to learn that the house was thoroughly cleaned of all powder and securely locked up The parties having charge of the house were not aware that any powder remained in it, as they had been notified by all the former depositors of the removal of their lots It seems that some damaged powder had been left—overlooked But the premises are now entirely safe

SALMON SHIPMENT —We stated yesterday morning that Hume & Cook and others shipped several hundred cases of canned salmon per steamer Oriflamme We have since learned that Hume & Cook alone shipped 3 000 cases that they had previously shipped over 9 000 cases and that the total say 12 000 is only just "a beginning" as compared with what is to follow from their fishery

A PERILOUS FEAT —Yesterday a double cross was erected on the new spire of the Taylor Street M E Church As soon as it was put in place and secured one of the workmen, with more daring than judgment climbed up and swinging himself across one of the bars waved his hat to the people below His height from the ground was over one hundred and sixty feet

NARROW ESCAPE FROM FIRE —Yesterday there came near being a fire at Burchardt & F[illegible] place on First street, Some child or set fire to a cask filled with straw at the rear of the store and but for the timely discovery by older persons the fire must have communicated with the building

POLICE COURT —Two cases of assault and battery and a drunk and disorderly were discharged yesterday but a man for blowing a police whistle was fined five dollars and costs

THE NUMBER OF PASSENGERS COMING —The [illegible] from San Francisco has about one hundred passengers—the smallest number arriving by any steamer since last March

COUNTY ORDERS —Holders of county orders endorsed prior to August 16 1870 will get their money by calling on Mr Steele the County Treasurer

ADMITTED TO CITIZENSHIP —Andrew Gaffney was admitted to citizenship in the United States Circuit Court yesterday

The Republican State Central Committee of Maryland met in Baltimore a few days ago and after ordering Congressional Conventions to be held in the several districts of the State adopted the following resolutions 1—That we regard the war forced upon Prussia by France as an outrage upon liberty and civilization and entertain the earnest hope that Prussia may triumph in the approaching conflict 2—That as an evidence of our practical sympathy the Treasurer of the State Central Committee be authorized to subscribe $100 in the name of the Republican State Central Committee of Maryland to the fund now being raised in this city for Prussian hospital purposes

OUR CITIZENS certainly deserve credit for the energy they display to make the Oregon Immigration and Labor Exchange a success and benefit to the State as well as the immigrant coming to our State. Every citizen should give all the aid in their power to help the large number of strangers coming to our State and not forget to inform them that Kohn & Fisher No 91 Front street, have the largest stock of clothing in Oregon other goods are of superior quality and sold at extreme low prices

GERMAN MEETING LAST NIGHT

Owing to the heat and the smallness of the Turn Verein Hall the German meeting which was called last night was held at the Washington Guard Armory which was kindly tendered to them free of charge

At the appointed hour Mr Chas Wintzingerode called the meeting to order and stated the object of the meeting to be for the purpose of raising some funds and forwarding them to Baden and to aid the wounded widows and orphans

At this stage of the meeting a press dispatch was handed to the Chairman and read to the meeting to the effect that the Prussians hold both sides of the river Saar and the rumored death of the Emperor Napoleon and that a revolution in Paris was imminent the reading of which elicited great applause

On motion Mr B Goldsmith was elected Chairman and Dr Chas Schumacher Secretary of the meeting

Mr Goldsmith upon taking the Chair thanked the meeting for the honor conferred and said that their friends in Germany had gone forth to battle for the purpose of defending that river which is the pride of Germany and that the enemy had supposed they could come and go into the heart of Germany and dictate terms of their own in which they have been sadly mistaken But while we rejoice we should not forget the orphans and widows and the object this evening was to take some steps to collect funds for that purpose

On motion a committee consisting of Messrs B Goldsmith Chas Wintzingerode and A Le Grande were appointed to collect contributions for a sanitary fund and forward the same direct to Germany

A recess of some fifteen minutes was had and a number of those present came forward and subscribed various amounts when the meeting was again called to order

The chair stated that some $360 had been subscribed and he had no doubt it would reach $1 000 or more in a few days

On motion the Chairman was requested to act as Treasurer

On motion the proprietors of the Deutsche Zeitung were requested to publish a call on the Germans of Washington Territory and Oregon to form Committees, collect moneys and forward the same to the Portland Committee

On motion the thanks of the meeting were tendered to the Washington Guard and the Turn Verein

On motion the Chairman was requested to call a meeting within ten days and report the result

The New York papers daily publish long lists of sun strokes about half of which it is stated prove fatal New York with its narrow streets is compared to a furnace and the mortality of late has greatly increased owing to the excessive heat

For an Irritated Throat Cough or Cold Brown's BRONCHIAL TROCHES are offered with the fullest confidence in their efficacy They have been thoroughly tested and maintain the good reputation they have justly acquired As there are imitations be sure to obtain the genuine

THE EUROPEAN WAR

Comments by American, French and English Papers

[illegible]

[illegible] the awful conflict which the ambition of [illegible] France [illegible] it is properly a war of defense [illegible] Frederick and the King of [illegible] petty states has the strongest [illegible] skilful [illegible] that at the present moment Napoleon [illegible] King William [illegible] the crime of provoking [illegible] participate in the guilt of [illegible] bloody war.

IF FRANCE LOSES WHAT THEN

[From the New York Herald]

It is impossible to speak too highly of the [illegible] of the French army. In point of bravery it is second to no army in the world. At the same time we cannot close our eyes to the fact that France has more to lose than Germany—that Napoleon has more to lose than King William. It is not possible for any [illegible] or combination of Powers to keep Germany [illegible] united or throw her out of the pathway of progress. Even if Prussia were defeated it would not be possible for France—nor for France with all the Powers at her back—to dismember the Fatherland. It is not possible to make South Germany French. A French victory might check the progress of German unity, but it would only be for a little. There is a gulf between the Germans and the French—between the Teutons and the Latins—that no French triumph or European [illegible] can bridge. It is too deep. It is too wide. Should Prussia win—should Prussia be successful in driving the French [illegible] herself, hurling the legions of the [illegible] homeward demoralized, as after Leipsic and Waterloo, how heavy would be the blow to France, how ruinous to the House of Bonaparte! If Napoleon wins, France will unquestionably honor him and take more kindly than ever to his house. It will be at least a less difficult matter for his son to succeed. But if he should not win, republicans, Orleanists, legitimists and not a few Bonapartists would unite against him. It requires no great effort of imagination to picture to the mind another abdication, another exile, another restoration. The first fruit of an invasion of France in such circumstances as those we have described would most certainly be [illegible] "Down with the Bonapartes!"

FRANCE ILL PREPARED FOR WAR

Paris Correspondence of the Boston Journal

The prospect in France is very black. Indeed it has never been darker since the commencement of the Napoleonic dynasty. A war certainly seems imminent; in a short time it must come, or France must lose her present position among the nations. But never was nation, in reality, more ill prepared for war. The crops of France have failed this year, and the manner in which supplies would require to be concentrated for an immense and rapidly moving army would cause the greatest trouble, not to say positive famine in certain parts of the country. The misery now existing in some sections of southern France, because the crops have failed, is quite frightful. Where would it finish if war came on? And then, the reverses? It is by no means certain that France would win. She has at any rate an immense amount of prestige to lose by going to war with Prussia. You will see how. Much of the rumored invincibility of France on the field of battle is bosh, and when once the French come in contact with the Prussians this will be proved. Wherever Saxon blood has met French blood in the way of battle, it has triumphed. Let us see how it will be with the Teutonic. Napoleon evidently thinks that there is nothing to fear from Prussian arms, for he is ready and eager for battle. Only the disturbed internal condition of the country has kept him from precipitating a campaign which must certainly alter the map of Europe. You will see the chart changed considerably on one side or the other of the Rhine just as soon as the battle commences, whether it be to-morrow or twenty years away. If any actual war comes on the present dynasty at the Tuileries runs the greatest danger. Even Jules Favre now-a-days seems anxious to see the Orleanists back, preferring to see a family "in which all the sons are brave and all the daughters chaste," supplant a court of parvenus and semi-Spanish grandees. There is an old gentleman down in a malaria smitten corner of Italy, too, whose temporal power is sure to fall through if the Prussian people get their way and whip France.

THE QUESTION IN FRANCE

[From the Paris Opinion Nationale.]

During the past century many revolutions have transpired in a world subject to change, and in which events succeed each other without intermission, flowing as ceaselessly as a river. * * * In the midst of all such vicissitudes and changes there is one country which, without possessing the same relative power as heretofore, has been able to maintain its position at the head of Europe so well that every enterprise accomplished in defiance of its will is fragile and little calculated to endure. That country is France. France is in truth the only truly great Power of our Continent which does not possess in its midst, together with the necessities of individual action, the fundamental sources of incompatibility, trouble, weakness and [illegible] which characterize the majority of other States. * * * We have but to listen for a moment to hear beating in the North German Confederation a Prussian heart as well as a Hanoverian, a Holstein, a Rhenish, a Saxon and a Polish, while with us, from the Rhine to the ocean and from Belgium to the Pyrenees, the finest ear, even were it that of the Scandinavian Deity, who could hear the sound of the grass growing, can hear but one heart beat—that of the French people. * * * Who rescued the nations of Europe from the serfdom of the Middle Ages? who made modern Germany? who emancipated Spain? who raised up Egypt? who gave Italy its unity? Our father, France, and always France. And should France ever come to disappear as a great nation, or even to lose the influence which she has previously exerted, that day would be one of the most fatal the world has seen, for the point of equilibrium once broken, we would see begun in Europe an unbridled conflict of rival ambitions which would have, for its immediate result, the dismemberment of Austria and somewhat later the merging of Eastern civilization with the [illegible] of Panslavism. The interest of France is thus truly the interest of Europe. The allied sovereigns themselves [illegible] when, before [illegible] offered to Napoleon the frontiers of the Alps and the Rhine and declared that France [illegible] the keystone of the arch of social order in Europe. [illegible] day, after an interval of two thirds of a century, these [illegible] Herr von Bismarck has himself undertaken the task of proving it, since in seeking to exclude France from his latest scheme he has shaken the equilibrium to its foundations and precipitated Europe into the most critical situation which she has ever traversed, and it is thus that we furnish the explanation of this phenomenon. The house of Hohenzollern has always [illegible] longings to put in the place of the great and generous ideal of the French people. There is not a single State which does not feel itself injured by the policy inaugurated by the Cabinet of Berlin in 1866. South Germany, which longs with so much reason to [illegible] independent existence, is menaced with complete absorption. Switzerland is in peril. The Cabinet of Vienna is [illegible] with regard to the lot which would be reserved for them if we permitted Herr von Bismarck to [illegible] his pretensions [illegible]. All the western division of Austria would pass under the sceptre of the Hohenzollerns, and the eastern portion, comprising Hungary, would become an integral part of the Russian Empire. Italy itself would then have but escaped from Austria to [illegible] the slave of a new Emperor of Germany, who, master of Switzerland, of the Tyrol, of Trieste and of Istria, would impose his commands upon them while they would have on the [illegible] of the Adriatic [illegible] formidable enemy, the [illegible] who to his two capitals, St. Petersburg and Moscow, would have added [illegible].

We should then be able to [illegible] the support of Austria and [illegible] having once more formed an alliance with the Prussian Government. The Italians have too much intelligence and good sense not to know that their place is beside [illegible] that with us they have everything to gain and nothing to lose, while [illegible] they would run the risk [illegible].

[illegible]

May I be mistaken. But it seems to me that we are now beginning to pay very dearly [illegible] 1851 and 1852. A people may imagine itself in clover when it has [illegible] the trouble of managing its own affairs, and when it has confided [illegible] its [illegible] hands [illegible]. The Constitution leaves to this man the power of commanding the land and sea forces, declaring war and making treaties of peace and alliance. What an excellent pretext for [illegible] individuals to spare themselves the trouble of thinking about public matters, and laying themselves out to make as much money as possible in their own private occupations. But let us suppose that the master elected by the people has more imagination than genius, that he has the appetite of a conqueror without the firmness and the settled purpose necessary to success; that he reckons too much upon his star, and expects from luck and the mistakes of others the results which he ought deliberately to prepare for himself. [illegible] suppose that he lives from hand to mouth, tempting fortune instead of making himself master of it. Always advancing or drawing back, and oscillating between the possible and the impossible, and what is [illegible] between the just and the unjust [illegible] champion of [illegible] necessity [illegible] Revolutionist or a Reactionist, just as it may happen, and ever ready to make a hash of his principles for the sake of expediency. It is not at all impossible that some day 38,000,000 of men may rouse themselves and express their dissatisfaction in a way not easily to be dealt with. Frenchmen, my dear friends, only think of the great things which you have done by procuration within the last 20 years. On your behalf your governors have dreamed for you the conquest of the world and universal monarchy, or at least the supremacy of Europe, with the extension of your frontiers. In 1849, when you were nominally Republicans, you violently put down the Roman Republic; you fought in Italy for that divine right which you have suppressed in Paris; you restored the Pope, who does not thank you, and pays you all sorts of affronts. At Sebastopol you humiliated but did not weaken Russia; you sacrificed a hundred thousand men and spent a milliard of money with no other result than to draw down upon you the hatred and rancor of a powerful nation. It is true that Turkey owes you a debt of gratitude for having postponed the solution of the great Eastern problem, but wretched Turkey would be of no use to you in case of war. In Lombardy you weakened Austria, aggrandized Victor Emanuel, and favored the fusion of small harmless States with a great Power. And now you have been clever enough to alienate that Power which owes everything to you by keeping it out of its capital. After having grouped a real nation around the small King of Sardinia you have forced that Regalantuomo to be your enemy. You have sought adventures in China and Mexico. The great American Republic was from its beginning the friend and ally of France. You constrained it to forget that it owed its existence to you. In the war of the Secession, when you should have sympathized with the cause of the North, you shut your ear to true principles. Your interests, as you understood them, led you to side with the South, but you had not the courage or the sincerity to act upon your opinion. You only gave the slavery party a hesitating and sterile support. The Union was restored in spite of you, and its first movement was to make you evacuate Mexico. In Germany you tried surreptitiously to weaken Austria by Prussia and Prussia by Austria. Your diplomatists, who are supposed to be the pick and choice of human ability, warranted success. After a long and ruinous war the Austrians, your secret allies, who you had calculated, would be the victors, were beaten, and the Prussians, your enemies, became masters of Germany. Prussia allied herself with Italy, and your only compensation is the alliance of Austria, who, thanks to you, is reduced to the last degree of impotency. Such, my dear French people, is the result of your campaigns and your negotiations. Peace and war have been almost equally fatal to you. And you may be very sure that on the first opportunity, Prussia, Russia, America and Italy will be ready to combine to pay off old scores. This election of a King of Spain may be as good an excuse as any other.

BALANCE OF POWER—RUSSIA AND THE UNITED STATES TO BE THE GREAT POWERS IN THE FUTURE

[From the London Times.]

In urging that every effort should be made for the maintenance of peace we are moved more by moral considerations than by those of traditional European policy. We may say at once that we care but very little about the balance of power, which within the last two or three years has significantly disappeared from the preamble to the Mutiny act. A war between France and Prussia would be a war for the left bank of the Rhine, and would no doubt be fought out until the capacity of one to conquer or of the other to defend that debatable land was fully decided. The military result of such a war would affect us but little. The time has passed when it could matter to England whether any Western power possessed a few square miles more or less, or the command of this or that fortress. Since the last settlement of Europe States have come to maturity in the world which threaten to dwarf the ordinary members of the European system. Russia and the United States are the powers which the next generation will look upon as the most formidable. [illegible] the interests and attention of England [illegible] chiefly concerned with her own [illegible] colonists and with the vast populations of Asia. The result of the Franco-Prussian war is of little moment to us politically, but we have an interest in common with the whole of Europe that the two most advanced nations of the Continent should not plunge into a contest the effect of which may be to divide them for a generation by an enduring hatred. How much the real strength of civilization may lose by such a convulsion it is impossible to [illegible]. We can only be certain that the importance of Western Europe, the principal [illegible] of human progress, will be diminished, perhaps permanently, by a fratricidal strife.

BISMARCK'S WILY POLICY DISCUSSED

[illegible]

If [illegible] Bismarck had attempted to annex the South German States in the teeth of French remonstrances, Prussia would have been presented to Europe in the unamiable character of a breaker of treaties and a wanton disturber of the peace of the Continent. France, on the contrary, would have come forward as the defender of the separate existence of the small States threatened with annihilation at the hands of an overbearing neighbor. The sympathies of the Austrian Government would have been entirely on her side, and though she might have failed to secure any active support in that quarter she would have been sure of that friendly neutrality which is sometimes a [illegible] advantage. Now [illegible] stands on the supposition; still it must be remembered [illegible] more than a supposition that the Spanish crisis has been created or fostered to give [illegible] for a war with France. It is [illegible] upon the struggle with [illegible] points in her favor. The [illegible] given to France is much [illegible] will [illegible] has no interest to further by setting a Prussian Prince on the throne of Spain. It is [illegible] to prevent his [illegible] King if he is minded to do so; but this, she will point out, is merely equivalent to refusing to submit to the insolent dictation of France. If war should follow upon this refusal, it will be a war which she had no [illegible] to bring about, and into which she will enter with regret though not with apprehension. The real cause of such a war should [illegible] patent to all the world. [illegible] jealousy with which France regards the development of [illegible] unity and the corresponding development [illegible] power to keep the peace with France, but he cannot consent to [illegible] restrictions on the independence of [illegible] except Germany consenting to remain divided. [illegible] all parts of Germany than in the [illegible] resolution to pursue [illegible] aggression, but the final result would be the same in both [illegible]. If it be objected that this is a very far fetched theory, [illegible] one which seems to fit in with what is known [illegible] and that up [illegible] the French Government has been exactly what was to be expected, supposing that this hypothesis is true. Count Bismarck's [illegible] would be to keep himself in the background, and to make it appear that the crisis is the offspring partly of circumstances and partly of French [illegible]. Is there anything in what has taken place inconsistent with this [illegible]? Certainly the language used by the official press of Berlin [illegible] with it. Their daily assertion is that as Prussia has done nothing to create the present difficulty it is out of her power to [illegible] anything to avert it.
